As we are all aware, we are in the midst of a global health crisis. With the ongoing spread of COVID-19 (coronavirus) and the incredible speed at which things are changing around us, we are continually adapting our operations and business. How best to achieve this and proceed with our operation has evolved over the last couple of weeks.

Like many, we are trying to stay informed with the current information which is evolving daily. First and foremost, our number one priority is keeping our clients, our employees and all of our families safe.

While we continue to work in our remote home offices, we are able to continue meeting via online meeting and web conferencing software such as GoToMeeting. This will allow us to keep staff members safe while providing continued service to our clients.

As you know by now working with Latitude you become part of our extended family, be safe and be well.
